

UNGODLY

So, Basically

The Greek gods are quite literally brought down to Earth and are forced to assimilate to life with the rest of us useless mortals. Schitt's Greek for the first time in over several thousands of years as this time this dysfunctional family is under one roof again. It's like moving back in with your parents, but like, a millennium times worse. Think 'Arrested Development', but make it mythical.

In Case You Didn't Know

GENRE: A mythical comedy for freaks and geeks

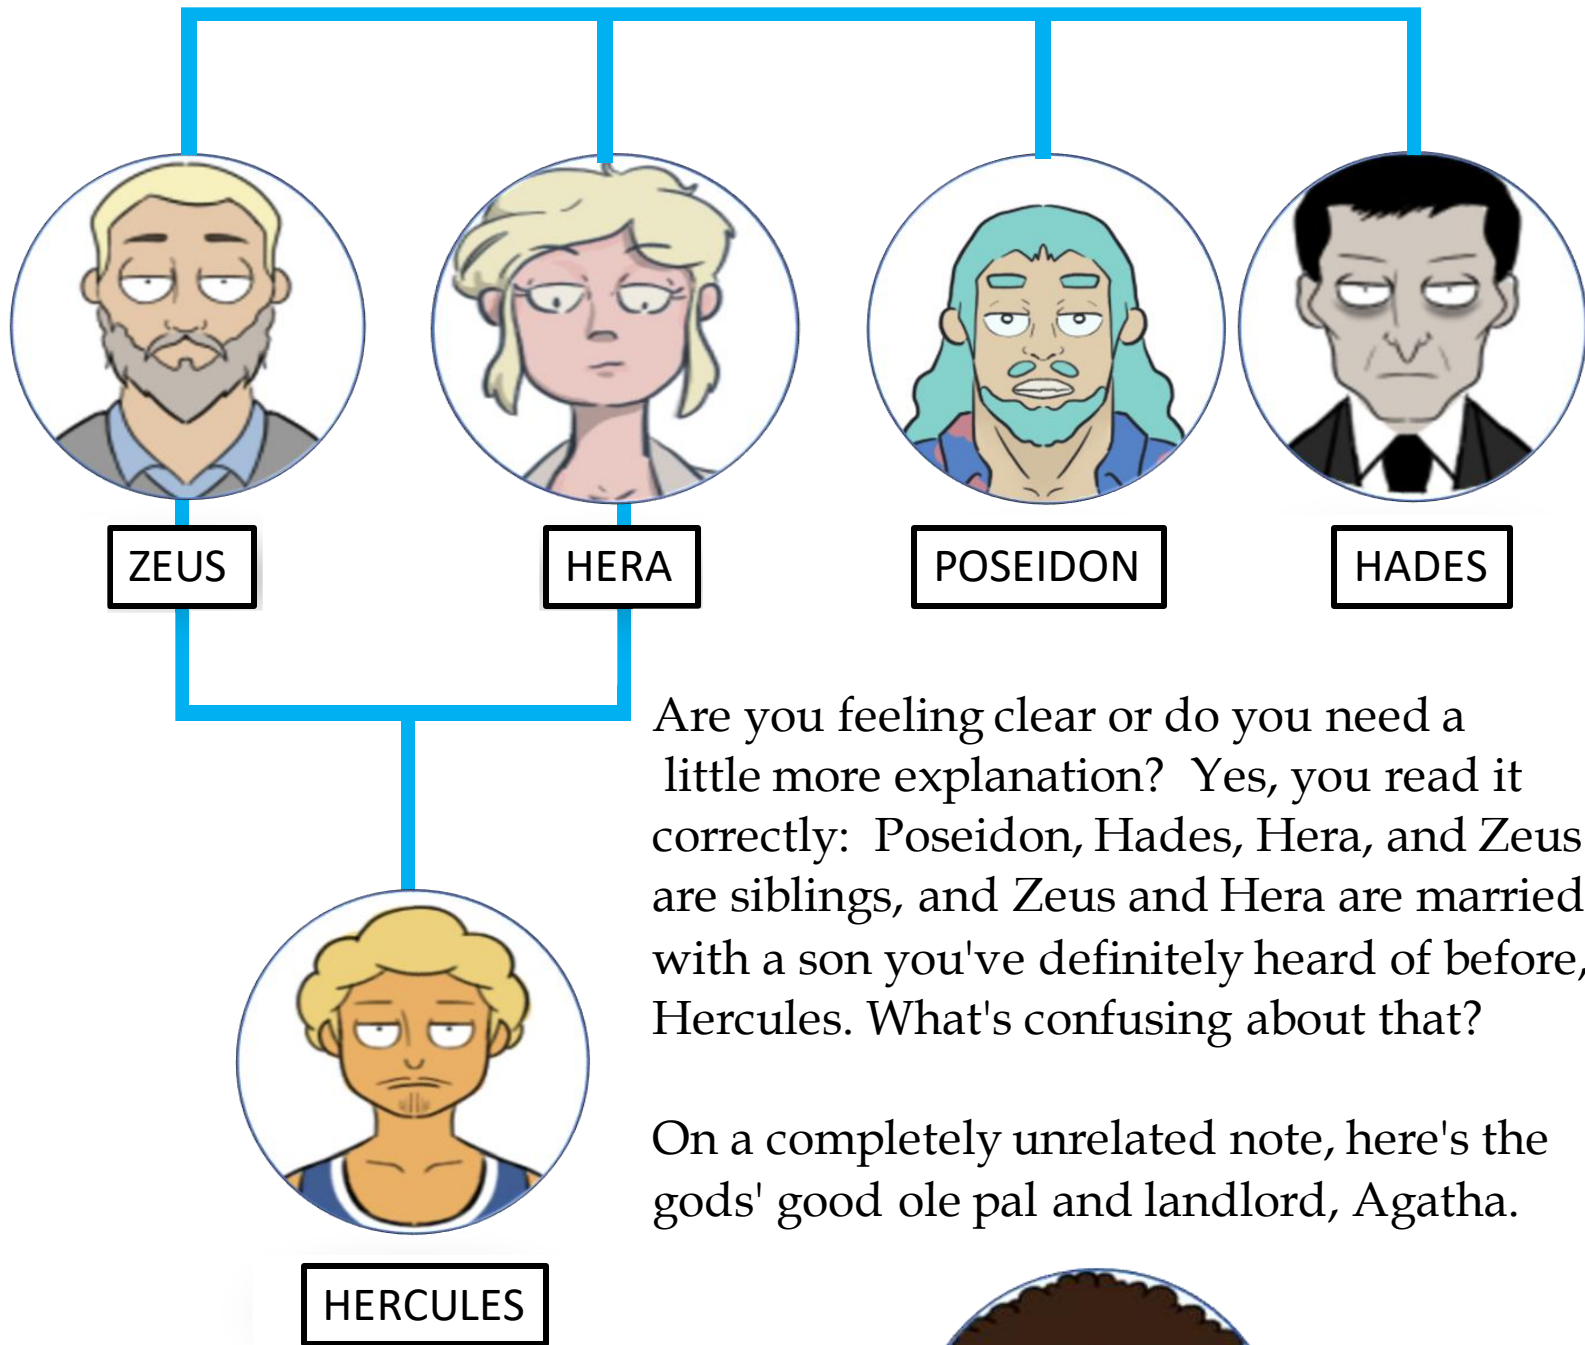

FORMAT: Adult animation with an ensemble cast

LENGTH: 10 episodes series / 22 minutes

TARGET AUDIENCE: Adults 14+ or really, really cool kids

Meet The Family!

Are you feeling clear or do you need a little more explanation? Yes, you read it correctly: Poseidon, Hades, Hera, and Zeus are siblings, and Zeus and Hera are married with a son you've definitely heard of before, Hercules. What's confusing about that?

On a completely unrelated note, here's the gods' good ole pal and landlord, Agatha.

Let's Elaborate

The mythical Greek Gods of yore are left homeless when Mount Olympus is foreclosed upon in the midst of yet another Greek Economic Crisis.

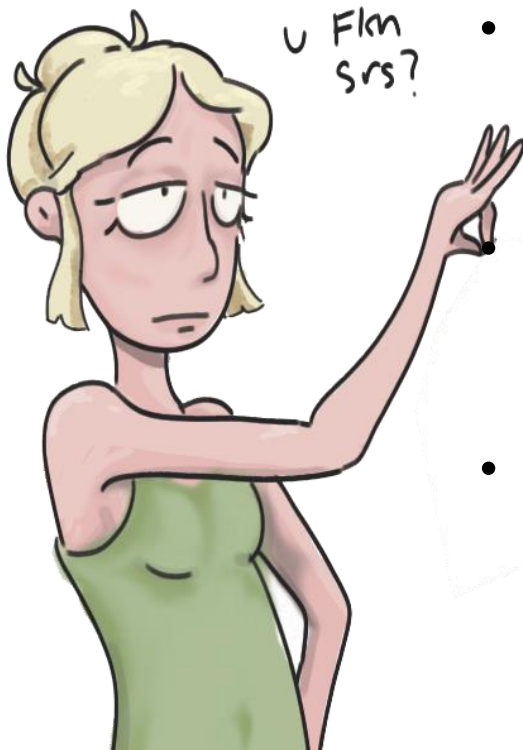

Now out of the sky and on to the streets, they seek refuge in the home of a PhD student named Agatha. In exchange for aiding the gods assimilate to Earth, Zeus promises to give her the missing piece to an ancient Greek artefact that is kept on Mount Olympus.

With only limited godly powers, the Greek Gods will have to learn how to adapt to life on earth...but how do you explain a 5000-year gap in your CV when you're the God of Thunder applying for a weatherman job? Agatha does all that she can to help Zeus try and reclaim Mount Olympus, but when this dysfunctional family can't even take out the trash, how will they be convinced to return to their divine responsibilities?

What You'll See Each Week

Throughout the series, this ungodly bunch will run amok in the (below) average city of Athens, USA and shake up the humdrum life of their host Agatha. With sheer entitlement and cluelessness, we will watch our washed-up gods try (and ultimately fail) to, well, fit in.

From applying to jobs and signing up to dating sites, to hiding your incestuous affair from your boss and impregnating a dolphin during a whirlwind romance, they'll learn (or not) to live as humans. Along the way we see will see the Ungodly squad encounter both friends and foe from Greek mythology, such as:

- Medusa (a dispensary owner who gets people stoned rather than turned into stone)
- Cupid (a degenerate bar-fly who's out of work due to the recent rise of dating apps)
- Dionysos (a fraternity legend, party animal and butt-chugging advocate)

AGATHA

A nerd for all things Greek mythology, Agatha is initially starstruck at the sight of her heroes--the gods. That's until she learns that they're absolutely psychotic.

A socially awkward bookworm, Agatha is the level-headed member of the squad, and must constantly keep the gods in check whilst also getting that paper (a PhD in--can you guess?--Greek mythology). The only reason she even puts up with them is out of respect to her grandfather's memory (RIP Pee-Paw) and his obsession with an magical ancient Greek artefact called the Tablet of Portokalos. But that was just nonsense from his dementia-ridden brain... Right?

Agatha will also learn what it means to be part of a unit. You know what they say about family: you can't choose which one you're born into, or which one crashes through your front door.

"You guys are less depressing in my textbooks"
-Agatha

ZEUS

The god of gods and thunder, the powerful and arrogant zaddy of Mount Olympus.

On Earth, however, he's like the rest of us: cripplingly lame. Zeus lives in the glory days when he had a six-pack and could literally make it rain. Now all Zeus has is a beer gut and a dead-end job on public access television where his only power is accurately predicting the weather.

While he had a handle on being the father of an entire civilization, Zeus soon realizes that being a family man is not that easy. Between alimony bills to pay to his ex-wife-current-sister Hera and their son Hercules; his weed-addicted younger brother Poseidon and his conniving, jealous brother Hades on top of it all, you can't blame the guy for having a mid (eternal)-life crisis.

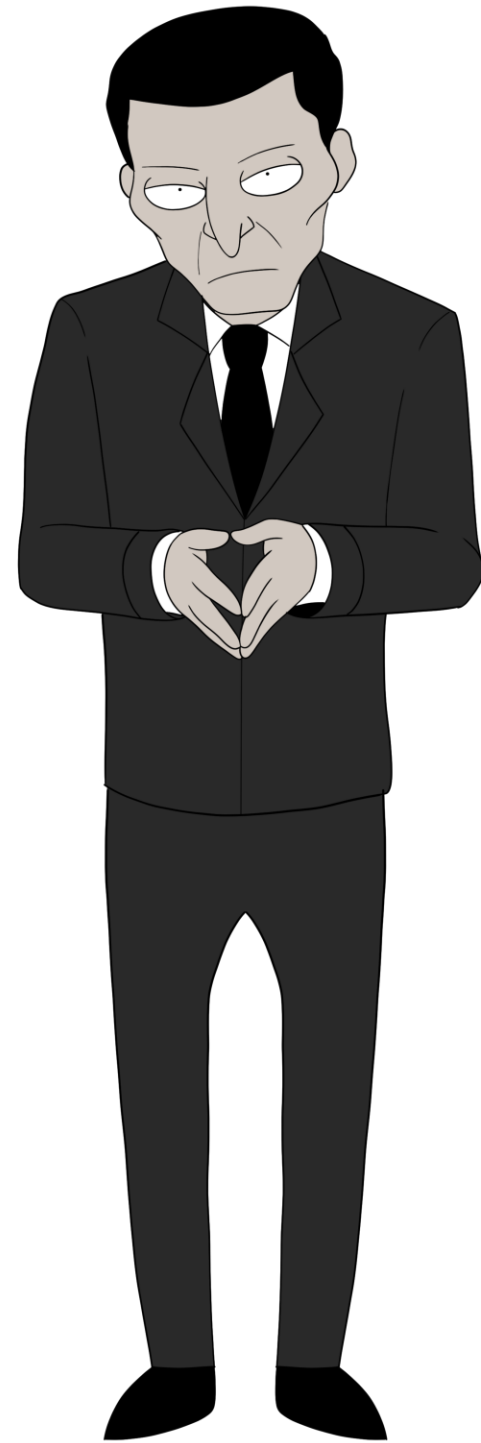

"Forecast calls for above-average familial disappointment with a 90% chance of me wondering where my eternal life went wrong" - Zeus

HADES

The black sheep of the family and the OG dark lord (suck it, Voldemort!). Although he can't bring anything back to life that is larger than a hamster these days, Hades is still ruler of the underworld. Well, Agatha's outdated basement. But on the bright side, it's more air-conditioned than Hell.

Speaking of hell, Hades spends his days where he feels most at home, the wretched planes of human misery: he works at the American Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV).

Always ready with a cruel quip, Hades is never where you expect him to be, and is constantly scheming to thwart his younger brother Zeus' plans. Well, everyone's plans, actually. But maybe if someone paid him some attention every once in a while, he wouldn't need to act out so much....

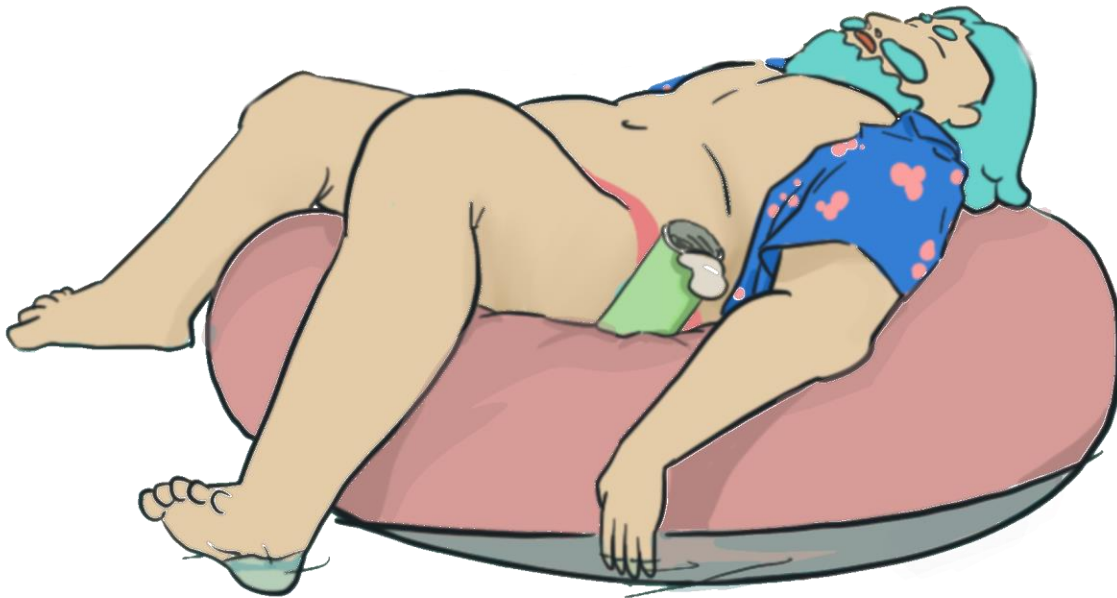

"I treasure the time that I don't spend with you" -Hades

POSEIDON

The God of the Seas is a male bimbo--correction a himbo--with a passion for Mary Jane and a banana hammock four sizes too small.

On Earth, his magic trident is a dinner fork and the only crashing waves he can create is when he splashes around in his paddling pool.

This lovable stoner is manipulated like a pawn in his brothers' continual game of chess, but Poseidon never seems to care. Or even notice. His half-baked brain constantly inhibits his ability to listen, hold a job, or to be...you know...a functioning adult.

"Why don't you free this Willy?" -Poseidon

HERA

Full-bodied and aged to perfection, as time goes by the goddess of marriage and family only gets better and better.

Zeus' ex-wife and current sister is a certified Wine Mum; and a mer-LOT to handle now that she's dedicated her life to being a family and couples' therapist (no, she doesn't see the irony).

While she helps others with their bottled up emotions, she fails to see her unhealthy attachment to her son Hercules (after all, he's her little rosé-cheeked angel). Always ready to make a man w(h)ine like a baby, she'll destroy you emotionally before asking you for a top-up.

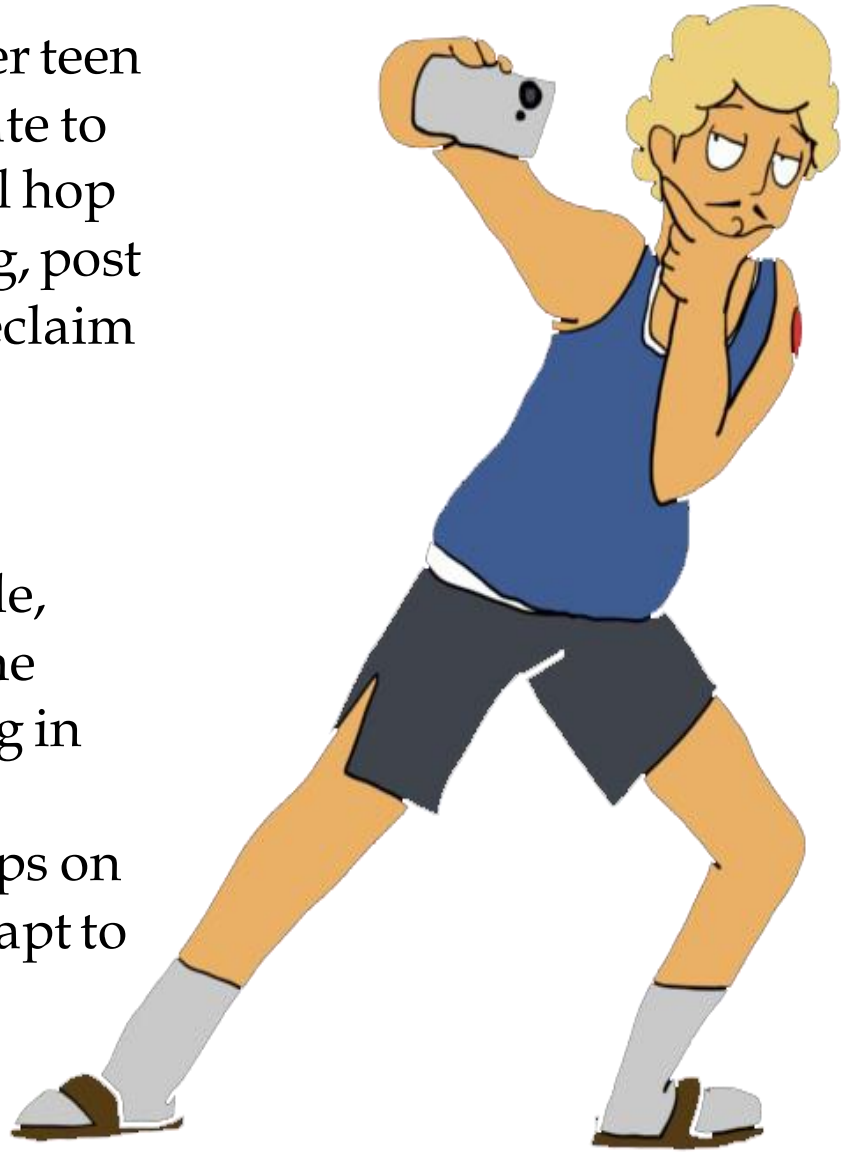

"Just because you and I are siblings that happened to be married it does not make our son a 'Gross Domestic Product'!" -Hera

HERCULES

A suuuper washed-up, former teen pop sensation who is desperate to get back on top. Hercules will hop on any trend, use any hashtag, post any TikTok or OnlyFans to reclaim his fame.

Despite his super strength, Hercules is emotionally fragile, issues stemming with, well the neglect of Daddy Zeus. Living in an old tour van full of old memorabilia that sell for scraps on eBay, Hercules also has to adapt to life far from stardom and his father's approval.

If he were any more inbred, he'd be a sandwich.

"Hello Dad? It's me, your son. No, your other son. No, your other, OTHER son. No..." -Hercules

UNIVERSE

ATHENS, USA

The gods have settled in Agatha's hometown of Athens, USA. Not the shittiest place you've ever been to but the town motto is "Where American Dreams Go To Die". Features of Athens include a beautiful beach filled with broken needles and toxic waste, a Red Robin that Ray Romano once got food poisoning in and a university, pictured here, that specializes in the analytical study of Love Island (seasons 1 through 5). If you want to study season six, you'll have to go to Georgetown.

Athens USA, it really has it all!

UNGODLY HOUSE

Pictured here is Agatha's home, a lovely eight bedroom, one bathroom fixer-upper. As you can see, Athens resident A-crap-alis has seen better days. A traditional Greek monstrosity, this worn down mansion sticks out in the middle class burbs like a sore thumb. A mediocre gaudy eye-sore and a perfect setting for the Ungodly bunch.

And here is Hercules old tour van, a museum to his former glory and a constant reminder of how much of a loser he has become.

EPISODES

PILOT: Down To Earth

We all know that the real victims of the Global Financial Crisis were the Wall Street banks and, of course, Gods from a religion that disappeared 2000 years before the invention of toilet paper. When Mount Olympus is seized by the European Central Bank, Zeus and Poseidon find bookworm Agatha and try to manipulate her into crashing at her house (how do you say 'Tu casa es mi casa' in Ancient Greek?). But when they realize that she has already taken in their black sheep brother Hades as a tenant, a clash of the (middle-aged) titans ensues.

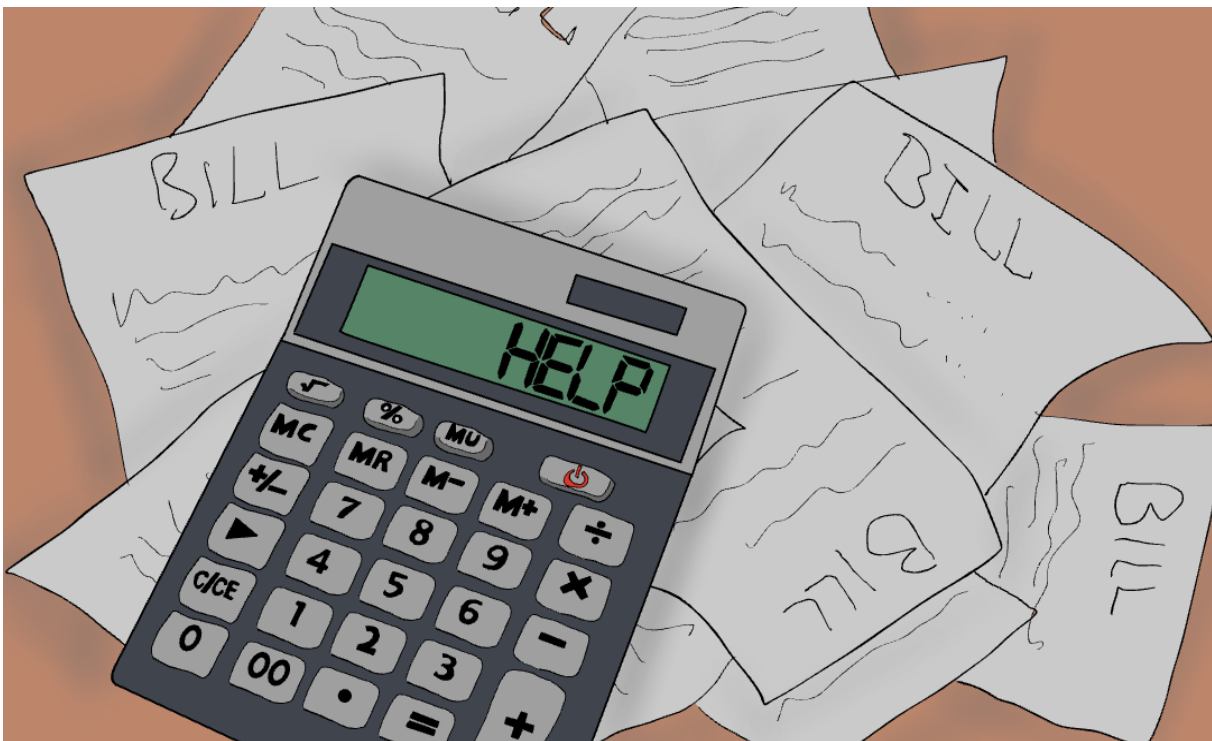

2. Are You There, Dad? It's Me, Hercules

Zeus' sister (AND ex-wife) Hera shows up at Agatha's door with their son, former teen pop icon Hercules, and a millennia-old claim for alimony. With a new mouth to feed (and that mouth can eat A LOT) Zeus has no choice but to look for a job, and is saddled with his estranged son on this 13th labor.

A similar wave of responsibility washes over the rest of the bunch, as Poseidon follows Hades to the DMV and is roped into becoming a drug mule for the local cartel.

Meanwhile, Hera accompanies Agatha to campus and is confronted with her own reality in Psychology 101 (what's the name of the complex that makes you want to f*ck your brother again?!).

3. A Family Affair

Zeus decides to host a family dinner to make an impression on his new boss. "Close-knit" takes on a whole new meaning when Zeus ropes Hera into being his +1 while at the same time, keeping the incestuous nature of their marriage on the hush hush.

A dejected Hercules leans on his uncle Hades to teach him how to ride a bicycle when his father refuses. You'd think the guy who slayed the Nemean lion would know how to pedal, but that would be forgetting his failed butt implants.

When Poseidon gets Agatha suspended from school, he must work overtime to prove to her that he is a responsible adult-- and what better way to do that than ask Zeus' boss for a job at a dinner he wasn't invited to?

4. Like a Rolling Stoned

The mythical gorgon now-turned-successful-marijuana-dispensary-owner Medusa wreaks havoc in the family by seducing Zeus to get back at her ex-boyfriend Poseidon. Hera is dismayed: if she can't have her own brother, then no one can!

Medusa gets Agatha stoned, launching her on her own psychedelic journey, which Hercules volunteers to guide.

Meanwhile, Hades vows to commit as many evil acts as he can, after becoming self-conscious that his time on Earth has turned him soft.

5. God, Jury, and Executioner

Judgment Day has arrived when Hades enjoys jury duty a bit too much on a self-defense murder case. That is until his brother Poseidon is called to the stand as a key witness.

Meanwhile, Hera is mistaken for a judge in the Mr. Athens beauty pageant. She attempts to stay impartial but finds this hard as her baby boy (he's in his mid 30s), Hercules is also competing. But as he looks less like a fiery guy and more like a Guy Fieri, the swimsuit portion of the contest is sure to put a strain on this ~~perfectly healthy~~ Mother-Son relationship.

A cluelessly un-woke Zeus says the wrong thing on his weather forecast and gets #cancelled. Agatha is forced to clear both their names until she is labelled as a close friend and confidant of the disgraced god and gets roped into the controversy. Even Ben Affleck's character in Gone Girl had better press!

6. A Date Worse Than Death

When a new dating app, OKAphrodite, pops up on the market, it's the perfect opportunity for Hercules to get his parents Hera and Zeus back together - or so he thinks, until they gang up on him and force him to become a responsible adult.

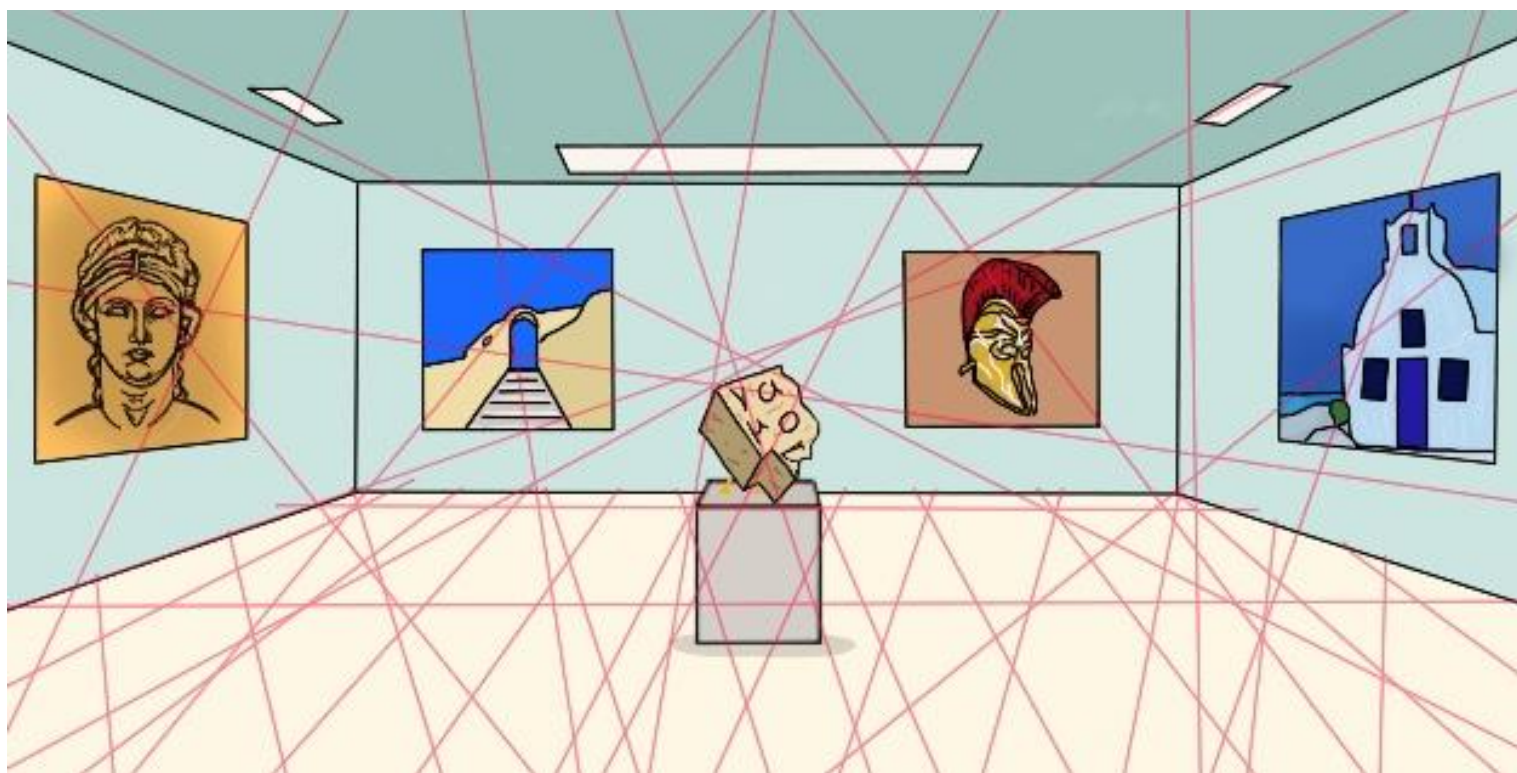

Meanwhile, Poseidon meets an overweight and washed-up Cupid - think Boss Baby merged with Vito Corleone - who spends his days philosophising on good old-fashioned love at a tiki bar. This of course prompts Poseidon to begin a passionate affair with a racy dolphin - think Flipper merged with Baywatch-era Pamela Anderson.

The fishy affair continue as Agatha helps Hades converse with a possible (or literal) catfish online.

7. Heist Almighty

Agatha gets the whole gang together to rob a piece of the precious tablet of Portokalos, exposed at the local Athens museum – however she soon discovers that the Ungodly crew are here on their own terms. While Hera gets a kick out of acting like the Ocean's 12 heist leader, Hades sets off to steal and destroy a belittled statue of himself where his manhood is - if you ask him - criminally underestimated.

8. A Divine Intervention

The Ungodly family is featured on an episode of the hit reality television show 'Intervention' as they feel Poseidon's weed addiction has gotten out of control. However, under the scrutiny of the cameras and accusations lashed out at one another, they quickly realize that they all have less-than-healthy coping mechanisms. Meanwhile, Hercules is hoping for his career to catch a second-wind when he is cast in what he believes to be a serious Shakespearean adaptation, 'A Midsummer's Wet Dream', which turns out to be a good old-fashioned straight-to-DVD porno.

Yeah, you can imagine what Puck's name is in that version.

9. Greek Life

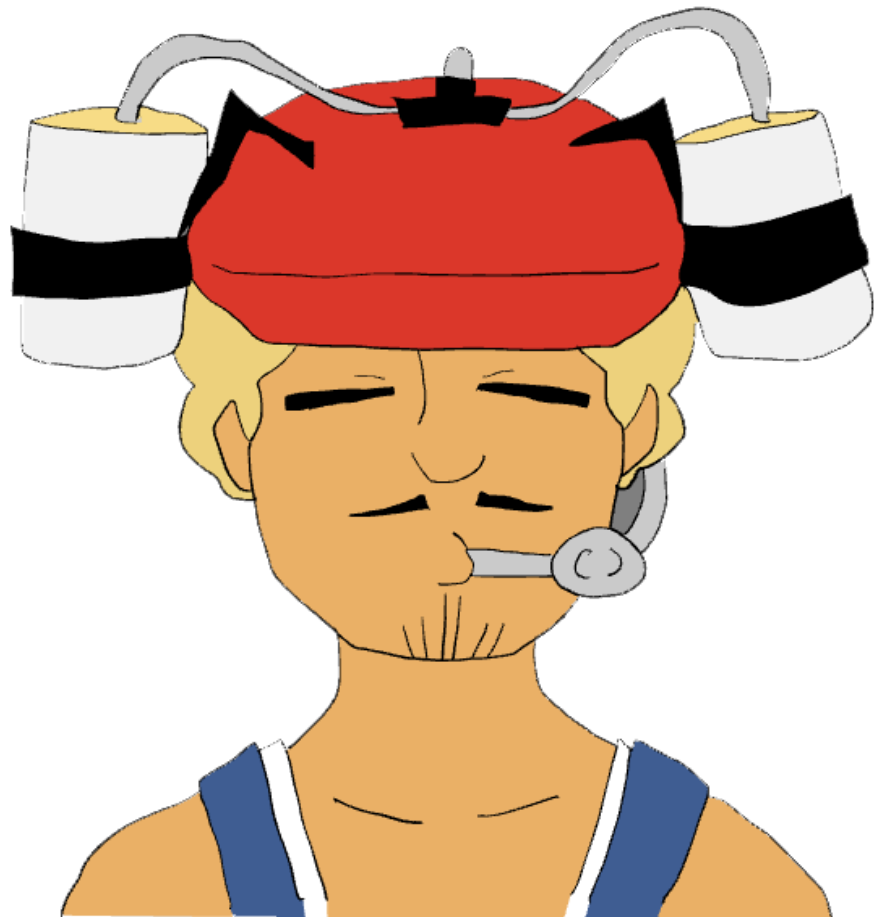

Bro. Greek Life takes on a whole new meaning when Agatha misunderstands the concept of a “Toga Party” and unknowingly invites a herd of frat boys into the Ungodly house for a raging kegger. But how could she say no to frat President and campus king, Tanner? That dude is so hot (no homo...or homo...love is love).

The night goes from sick to epic when Tanner turns out to be Dionysos, the god of wine and frenzy, and he also has a piece of the tablet which Agatha is after too?!

There’s only one way to settle it: CHUG-A-THON.

While that’s going down, Zeus has to rely on his brother Hades to renew his driving licence, and the power of the DMV goes to the dark lord’s head.

It was legendary bro, you just had to be there!

10. The Pros and (Comic) Cons

Tensions run high as the Ungodly bunch venture in the dark underbelly of society, to experience a carnival of forbidden, grotesque delights...

That's right: it's Comic-Con and Agatha attends every year without fault. But when it turns out that the prize for the Best Costume Contest is 6 tickets for a cruise to Athens, Zeus must Project Runway the perfect costume, suck in his beer gut, and get his family back home.

While failing to pawn off his old albums at his "celebrity" booth, Hercules bumps into his old manager and learns that the pop-band he was once a part of is going on a reunion tour, without any of its original line-up.

Surrounded by sweat, hot glue and spandex, this may be the last chance for the Gods to get back to the top...or the sky.

SERIES 2

The ungodly gang is back and holier than ever! Throughout this next series, we will see our characters surviving not thriving as they venture out on new paths and, like totally, ~find themselves.~

When Zeus arrives at Mount Olympus to see that his former home is being turned into a mini-mall by super nerd Elon Musk, he makes the decision to create Olympus on Earth. Step 1: build an army of loyal followers who will obey his every command. Step 2: ????. Step 3: Eternal glory.

After finding out that the Tablet of Portokalos is more of Burn Book à la Mean Girls than the answer to immortality, Agatha finally decides to close the books for good and crack open a beer. Booze rules, school drools!

Hades decides to see what this Heaven place is really all about and joins a priesthood where he can finally do good deeds without the constant guilt from the little devil (known as Lil Hades) on his shoulder.

Poseidon, just like you're slightly-too-rambunctious German shepherd, has been sent to a farm upstate for a unconventional rehabilitation program. But things take a turn when his boss turns his patients into pawns of his elaborate underground "meat" regime...

Our forever fruitful Hera is once again pregnant for the first time in 40,000 years, but this time, the baby is NOT hers. No, it's for her super fabulous BFFs Plato and Socrates. That's right, Hera is a surrogate. Get ready for some Baby Mama drama.

Hercules is finally back on tour with the boys, The Demigods. YEET. He's not exactly center stage, but far back left corner is still better than nothing!

An exclusive, VIP deluxe, sneak peak of our show. Enjoy!

INT. DR. GIL'S STUDIO - DAY

PAN OUT. HERA, ZEUS, and HERCULES sit on a couch bickering.

HERCULES, wearing a golden jacket, scrolls on his phone, and ZEUS angrily rubs his temples, and HERA spills white wine as she yells at her husband.

The view pans to see AGATHA cramped at the end of the couch, opposite of DR. GIL in an armchair.

AGATHA

They're not my family. But I live with them. Actually, no they live with ME. There's been a misunderstanding about a... uh... rapper's jacket?---

HERCULES

'Rapper jacket?' It's a Kanye motherf*ckin West GOLDEN FLEECE! Yeezy, baby!

HERA

You look so handsome, my little pegasus!

HERCULES pulls out his phone and takes a selfie.

ZEUS

(to Hera)

You spent ALL OF MY money on a frivolous cloak!

HERCULES dabs.

HERCULES

Cloak of INVINCIBILITY! YEEZY, BABY!

ZEUS

I refuse to carry out upholding my alimony duties if you're going to squander it on 'a Jizzy Jacket' and other such nonsense!

HERA

Do you know how much headshots cost over the years?! Tummy Tucks, lip fillers?? And so many adult diapers!!

The sound of inhalation, bubbles from a bong.

PAN OUT to POSEIDON and HADES on two chairs on the side.

POSEIDON is smoking weed and wears a peach 1980's prom tuxedo vest with a speedo. CLOSE UP on POSEIDON.

POSEIDON

Can I take 'failed marriages' for $400?

POSEIDON exhales a huge cloud of smoke.

POSEIDON

What is 'incest?'

AGATHA

This is Feuding Families, not Family Feud! I think you're thinking of Jeopardy...

HERCULES

(on Instagram live)

Whaddup, HercJerks? I'm on my homie Dr. Gil's show talking about my family--- yo fam is a trip but at the end of the day I'm hashtag blessed to have them, namsayin?

ZEUS

This is preposterous! Look at him, he's a fat failure of a man!

HERCULES weeps from under his shutter shades.

HERA

It's just baby fat! He'll grow out of it!

HADES

Anyone would be so lucky to have this...darling boy as a son. If I had a son...

ZEUS

You have dozens of sons!

HADES

None of which I had with my own sister...

Audience GASPS.

HADES

Unlike you, a deadbeat dad who won't own up to the responsibility of their inbred.

AUDIENCE boos. HERA stands up and throws her wine in HADES' face.

HERA

He's my inbred boy!

DR GIL

Folks, as always on Feuding Families, it's all relative! That one always tickles me! We'll be right back after a word from our sponsors.
